About the book

In today's business world, anyone working in marketing or advertising needs English in order to do their job. Whether you are talking to clients, discussing new advertising campaigns for your company, establishing a new marketing plan, or writing a press release – you will be using English more and more.

English for Marketing and Advertising is aimed at anyone who works in marketing and advertising. The book covers all the essential responsibilities of marketing and advertising departments. There is particular emphasis on the relevant vocabulary and speaking skills needed to work efficiently in English. Telephoning, emailing, meetings, and presentations are practised, alongside the important specialist vocabulary relating to branding, market research, advertising rates, direct marketing, and public relations.

English for Marketing and Advertising consists of seven units. Each unit begins with a Starter, which consists of small exercises, brainstorming, or a quiz. Following this there are dialogues, texts, and authentic documents along with a variety of exercises which allow important vocabulary and expressions to be learnt in context. Realistic listenings (dialogues, presentations, lectures) on the accompanying MultiROM allow you to practise your listening comprehension and to improve your communication skills. Throughout the units you will be referred to the Partner Files, where you will have the opportunity to practise all the language of the unit in realistic role-plays.

English for Marketing and Advertising deals with important topics relating to this sector, such as finding customers, marketing strategies and tools, creating ads, and trade fairs. Every unit ends with an Output text, which addresses the topic of the unit and leads to discussion. Finally the book closes with a fun crossword to Test yourself! on all you have learnt over the previous seven units.

At the back of English for Marketing and Advertising you will find the Answer key, which you can use to check your answers. You will also find the Partner Files, a Glossary and an A–Z word list. This includes a column of phonetics and a space for you to write the translations of the words in your own language. You can also use the Useful phrases and vocabulary section if you need to look up expressions quickly whilst at work.

The MultiROM contains all the Listening extracts from the book. These can be played through the audio player on your computer, or through a conventional CD-player. In order to give yourself extra listening practice, listen to it in your car or copy to your MP3-player. The Interactive exercises let you review your learning by doing Useful phrases, Vocabulary, and Communication exercises on your computer, which will be particularly valuable if you are using the book for self-study.
Introduction to marketing and advertising

Look at the following marketing and advertising activities. Can you add any?

- Doing market research
- Liaising with the sales department
- Providing support for customer service
- Drawing up a marketing plan
- Showing visitors around the company
- Writing press releases
- Commissioning advertising
- Creating advertisements
- Presenting at a trade fair
- Talking to customers
- Speaking to journalists
- Reading trade magazines

Now answer the questions.

1. Are all of these activities done in your company? If not, which ones are outsourced?
2. Which of the activities are you responsible for? Which are most important in your job?
3. Who do you speak to in English? What about? What English texts do you read? What do you write in English?
4. What is the most difficult to do in English?
1. Look at the following extracts from job advertisements. Match the titles to the job descriptions.

   brand manager • director of marketing • head of PR • marketing assistant

   1. His or her primary responsibility is to provide direct support to the media buyers. S/he will also track media mentions, support customer service, manage our relationship management tools, and provide other assistance within the marketing department when needed.

   2. The successful candidate must be an excellent manager and have a proven track record in leading a large department. The mission is to develop and execute a comprehensive marketing plan that reinforces our leadership position. Direct responsibilities include media relations, PR, marketing communications, planning, and more.

   3. The job involves managing all aspects of public relations, publicity, etc. The right person will have solid writing skills and strong relationships with the appropriate media outlets. The position reports directly to the CEO. The salary is based on experience.

   4. You will be responsible for developing and executing brand strategies and marketing initiatives for an assigned product line to meet revenue, profitability, and budget targets. Requires strong knowledge of marketing principles and practices, and the ability to lead cross-functional teams to accomplish a successful go-to-market strategy. This position reports directly to the Director of Marketing.

2. Match words from each column to make collocations from the job ads. Then match the collocations to the definitions (a–g).

   1. media knowledge
   2. customer line
   3. brand mentions
   4. product relations
   5. strong responsibility
   6. primary service
   7. public strategies

   a. a related series of items sold by a company (e.g. education software titles offered by a publisher)
   b. the department that deals directly with consumers
   c. communication with the general public
   d. items where the company's name is seen in newspapers, magazines, and websites
   e. main task or function
   f. good understanding
   g. ways of promoting a brand
Here are some more jobs and companies involved in marketing and advertising. Match them to the descriptions.

- ad agency
- art director
- copywriter
- graphic designer
- market research firm
- PR officer

1. One of this person's responsibilities is to create logos.
2. This company is responsible for creating advertisements.
3. This company might conduct a survey to find out more about your customer.
4. This person supervises the design staff.
5. This person interacts with the media to communicate important company information to the public.
6. This person writes the text for advertisements.

Think about your job responsibilities and write an ad for your own job (or the job you would like to have). Here are some phrases to get you started.

USEFUL PHRASES

Talking about job descriptions
- The job involves...
- You / The successful candidate will be responsible for...
- The right person will be in charge of...
- Direct responsibilities include...

Anna works in a medium-sized sporting goods company and is telling a new business partner who's who in the department. Listen to the dialogue and complete the organigram.

Listen again and complete the sentences from the dialogue.

1. We have separate ___________ for sales and marketing.
2. I'm the public relations ___________ here.
3. I ___________ directly to Sabrina, who's the ___________ of marketing.
4. If you need to talk to somebody about individual ___________, then you should contact Vittore or his ___________, Thomas.
5. Sylvia is ___________ for the image of our various brands.
6 Now draw an organigram for your own company or department. Use the following words and phrases to describe yourself and the people you work with.

- to report to
- to supervise
- to answer to
- to be in charge of
- to be responsible for

I report to the director of sales and marketing.

7 Representatives of three companies – a bank, a budget airline, and a car company – are giving presentations on their companies. Listen and make a note of each company’s brand values.

Company 1: quality

Company 2:

Company 3:

Which company is the bank, which is the budget airline, and which is the car company?

8 Listen again and complete these sentences from the presentations with words from the box.

- associate • communicate • emphasize • external • obvious • project • promote • remind • reputation • widely

1 We have three main brand values which we try to __________________ in all our internal and __________________ communication.

2 Our customers __________________ us with the highest quality products.

3 Our products are __________________ seen as the safest on the market.

4 That’s something we can __________________ through our brand.

5 We have always had a __________________ for coming up with new products and we try to __________________ that through our brand.

6 For us, the customer always comes first and we want to constantly __________________ both ourselves and our customers of that fact.

7 That’s something we continually __________________ in our marketing.

8 Hopefully that is __________________ from our logo and corporate design.
Billion-dollar Brands

There are about fifty brands in the world which generate one billion dollars' worth of sales. The category with the largest number is the beverage industry. Four tobacco brands and three snack foods are also in the list. IT, diapers, soup, detergent, telecoms, chewing gum, film, and razors also feature. Can you name any of these brands? Which are the biggest in your country?

9 Look at the adjectives below and write down a company or product you associate with each one. Then compare your results with your partner. Did you write down any of the same companies/products?

reliable: ____________________
trustworthy: ____________________
easy to use: ____________________
innovative: ____________________
luxurious: ____________________
unusual: ____________________
good value for money: ____________________
user friendly: ____________________

Which characteristics do you want people to associate with your products or services? Why?
What are your company's brand values (or what should they be)? Does your company have a slogan? What is it?

10 Work with a partner. First use the profiles in the Partner Files to discuss the brand values of 'your' company, the national rail service. Then present your ideas to the rest of the class.

Useful Phrases

Presenting your ideas
We think / feel that ...
In our opinion, the best options are ...
The most effective values for our company would be ...

11 How many expressions with brand do you know? Match the terms in the box with their definitions.

brand awareness • brand equity • brand extension • brand identity • brand image • brand loyalty • brand name • branding • derived brand • off-brand

1 What a brand is called.
2 How much people are aware of a brand.
3 What a company wants people to think about a brand.
4 What people actually think about a brand.
5 When a product doesn't fit the company's brand.
6 The value (either monetary or not) that a brand adds to a product or service.
7 When people like a brand and buy it again and again.
8 When a product or service is associated with a brand.
9 When an existing brand is used to support a new range of products.
10 When a component of a product becomes a brand in its own right (e.g. Intel in PCs).
Brand love by Peter Vane

Branding, branding, branding: If you haven’t heard the word, you’ve been under a rock for the last, oh, ten years. But is all the talk about branding just so much hype?

In a word: no. I think that branding is the most important point your company can consider – and everyone should consider it. And those of you who sell to companies – office chairs, obscure chemicals, you know who you are – you should be paying attention too.

It’s not enough just to have everyone recognize your brand name or your logo. Branding is about connecting, after all, and everyone in marketing needs to know how to make their product connect to their customer. The best brand has a rational as well as an emotional appeal, and speaks to your customer’s head as well as his or her heart. You want your brand to be something the customer knows is the best – and feels is the best too.

Today, everyone’s talking about iPods, and not just as state-of-the-art musical devices. When people talk about their iPods, you might think they’re talking about a best friend: ‘I’d never go anywhere without it!’ ‘If I had to choose between my iPod and my girlfriend, well …’ Despite the number of me-too products designed to compete with the iPods, the original still has the largest market share. Why? Brand loyalty.

And remember, once you’ve inspired brand loyalty in your customers, you can’t betray them and change the story of your brand. Cadbury, for example, has a reputation for their chocolates. But when they introduced Cadbury’s soup, it flopped. The problem was that the product was off-brand, and didn’t fit with the expectations people had about Cadbury’s products.

So remember that when you’re telling a story about your product, the story has to be consistent. Very few products live forever. iPods might already be yesterday’s news. But establish your brand, and people will remember it. When Apple introduces its next new idea, millions of people will be paying attention, ready to fall in love again.

OVER TO YOU

• How important is branding to your company? How important is it in your culture?
• Make a list of brands you like and brands you don’t like. Explain your feelings. (Did you have a bad experience with the brand? Was it advertised with an amusing or a horrible commercial?)
Finding the customer

Tricia works for a small sporting goods store in Manchester. Look at what she says about her typical customer.

Our typical customer is health-conscious and enjoys keeping fit, but doesn't play sport professionally. He or she is more interested in sport as a hobby. Our customer is more concerned with good value for money than with having cutting-edge fashions and designs.

Who is your typical customer? Write a profile of this person. How is this information reflected in your marketing strategy? What are some of the ways you learn more about your customers and their needs?

1 Use the words in the box to complete the following list of ways to learn about your customers.

clients • competitors • find out • listening • loyal customers • new trends • sales records • search terms

1 Email loyal customers directly with one or two questions.

2 Examine the _______________ that people type into your website's search function. Which items are people looking for?

3 Schedule a social event, such as a wine tasting, for existing or potential _______________, and use this as an opportunity to _______________ more about what they want.

4 Compare your marketing approach with that of your _______________. What areas are they targeting that you aren't?

5 Read trade journals to learn about _______________. This will help you stay ahead of the competition.

6 Study your _______________ to see what facts you already have about the people who buy from you.

7 Spend time in a shop or at a trade fair _______________ to people. What do they talk about? What questions do they ask?

Now work together with a partner to decide which methods are best for researching:

a a new product or service
b an existing product or service.
The marketing team at Euphony, a telecoms company, wants to research the market for mobile phones made specifically for children. Listen to the following discussion between three members of the team and make a note of the six data collection methods they mention.

Data collection methods
1 postal survey
2
3
4
6

What advantages and disadvantages do the different methods have? Which is the cheapest? Which is the most expensive? Listen again if necessary.

DID YOU KNOW?
Market research terms vary between Britain and the US. For example, an individual interview in Britain is often called a one-on-one or an in-person survey in the US, a street interview is called a sidewalk survey, and a postal survey is called a mail survey.

Listen to the dialogue again (or look at the transcript on page 69) and find words to fit the following definitions.

1 useful answer: ____________________________
2 a survey group which is not typical of a target group: ____________________________
3 model of a product in development: ____________________________
4 percentage of people who complete a survey: ____________________________
5 the group of people a company wants to sell to: ____________________________
6 information known about a customer: ____________________________
Now complete the sentences below using the correct form of the words you have found.

a. Rolex's ____________________ is wealthy people who see a watch as a status symbol.

b. When you log on to a website, the pages you look at and the amount of time you spend on them are saved in your ____________________ .

c. Even the best-designed surveys only have a ____________________ of about 4%, so don’t set your expectations too high.

d. A ____________________ will make the data you gather worthless, so think carefully about who fills in your questionnaires.

e. We did an online survey but we didn’t get many ____________________. Most of the visitors to our website aren’t customers.

f. Once the product development department has created a ____________________, we can display it at trade fairs. I’m sure it will attract more people to our stand.

4. Look at these other methods for assessing available information and collecting new information about your customers. Sort them into the correct category. Can you add any more to the table?

- desk / field research
- purchasing information
- feedback forms
- email surveys
- opinion polls
- panel surveys
- pre-testing
- sales statistics

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Sources of available data</th>
<th>Collection of new data</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>sales statistics</td>
<td>opinion polls</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

Have you ever used any of these methods or the ones mentioned in the dialogue in exercise 2? Which gave the best results? Why?
5 Look at the following scenarios. Work with a partner to decide which data collection method is best for each one. Try to use phrases from the Useful Phrases box below to give your opinions and to agree or disagree.

1. From online to on the beach
   An online travel agency wants to know how satisfied its customers are with its services.

2. A beverage company wants to test three new soft drinks.

3. A local transportation company wants to gather demographic information on its current passengers.

4. A financial consulting firm for very wealthy people wants to introduce a new wealth management package.

USEFUL PHRASES

Giving your opinion
I think / feel that...
It would be great to...
We definitely should...

Asking others for their opinion
What do you think, [Mark]?
[Harry], do you agree?
[Wendy], would you like to say a few words about that?

Agreeing
Me too.
Me neither. / Neither do I.
That's true.
Good point.

Disagreeing
I don't think ...
Sure, but ...
I see what you mean, but ...

6 Heike, one of the members of Euphony's marketing team, is calling Greg at Inside the Market, a market research firm in the UK. Listen to the conversation and complete Greg's notes.

Heike - Euphony
- needs survey for ____________________ 1
- ____________________ 2 survey is best
- ____________________ 3 target group

  - price and ____________________ 5 the phone should have
  - number of people interested, what willing to pay
- basic demographic information:
  - ____________________ 6 and ____________________ 7
- call Heike back on ____________________ 8
Now complete this extract from the conversation. Then listen again and check your answers.

Greg  Any \underline{\text{_________}} \text{ details? Should we ask about their} \underline{\text{_________}} \text{ and values towards children, for example?}

Heike  That would be interesting information, but to be honest we don’t want to \underline{\text{_________}} \text{ the} \underline{\text{_________}} \text{. If it’s too long people will just get} \underline{\text{_________}}.

7  The marketing research firm has prepared the following script for the telephone survey. Work in pairs to ask and answer the questions.

Do you think this is a good survey? Why or why not? Are there any questions you would add or change?
The questions below were taken from a survey. Use the words in brackets (and the correct tense) to complete them.

1. How many calls ________________ (you / make) per day with your mobile phone?
   - 1–3 a day
   - 3–5 a day
   - 6+ a day

2. When ________________ (you / buy) your phone?
   - less than 2 years ago
   - 2–3 years ago
   - more than 3 years ago

3. What ________________ (convince) you to buy the phone you currently have?
   - price
   - features
   - other ________________

4. Why ________________ (you / want) to buy a new phone now?
   - old one doesn't work
   - want more features
   - want the latest model
   - other (please specify) ________________

5. ________________ (you / ever / buy) a mobile phone for someone else?
   - yes
   - no

6. ________________ (anyone / ever / give) you a mobile phone as a gift?
   - yes
   - no

Now ask your partner the questions and note his / her answers. How could a mobile phone manufacturer use this information?

USEFUL PHRASES

Asking questions
Could I ask you how much you would pay for the phone?
How important are the following features to you?
What other features are important to you?
How often would you ...?
Can you tell me more about that?
When did you last ...?
Have you ever used / purchased a ...?
What would you like / be willing to ...?

Work with a partner to decide on a market research plan for 'your' company, a budget airline. Use the profiles in the Partner Files to decide on methods and to brainstorm survey questions.

Executive summary

To decide what the demand is for a child-specific mobile phone, to see what features are important to the target market, and to gauge interest in the product.

It is very important to restrict the numbers that can be dialled and to include a headset. A tracking system is somewhat important. Potential customers are willing to pay up to 100 GBP for such a product. Respondents with children or with close relatives who have children are very interested in buying such a product. Parents are very concerned about the possible health dangers of children using mobile phones.

Design and size are unimportant, but the product should be durable.

1) Demographics
2) Tabulated survey information
3) Selected comments

Now decide whether the statements below are true or false. Correct the false statements.

a) One goal of the survey was to see how interested people are in a mobile phone for children.
b) Parents want their children to be able to dial any number.
c) People without children are also interested in buying mobile phones for children.
d) Parents think that mobile phones might be harmful to children.
e) Respondents said they want the phone to be small and last a long time without breaking.
Read these comments about market research and say which opinion(s) you agree with.

Every company should examine their product line carefully at least once a year. The best way to do this is with market research. And, ideally, people in the company should be involved in the research process. Otherwise, you risk becoming out of touch with your target market. My boss, Alison, is always saying ‘I don’t think customers would want that.’ When did she last speak to one of our customers?

When I think of market research, I think of that old saying: ‘Begin with the end in mind.’ If you want clear results you can use, you have to tell your market research firm exactly what you want. Don’t let them be creative or make their own suggestions. Remember: you’re the one in charge.

Market research? I’m sorry, but I think it’s a complete waste of time. I know exactly what my customers need already. The challenge isn’t giving them what they want, but giving it to them at the price that they want.

I think that most companies spend too much time speaking to their customers about what they want, and not enough time looking at their competitors. It’s not just competitors in their own field. Everyone in your focus group might agree that you make the best chocolate bar in the business, but that doesn’t help you sell your products if no one wants to eat chocolate!

OVER TO YOU

• How do you analyse your competitors?
• Do you think market research is worth doing in your company (or industry)? Why or why not?
• What are the advantages of doing your own market research versus outsourcing it?
Planning a marketing strategy

Which of the following points do you discuss when drawing up a marketing plan? Are there any factors you can add?

- current position
- results from last year
- marketing tactics
- marketing strategy
- situation analysis (target market, competitors, economic climate)
- marketing activities (past and present)
- analysis of competitors
- problems and opportunities
- sales projections and costs
- objectives
- benchmarking
- implementation

Martin is the marketing manager of a telecommunications company. He is telling his colleagues about the marketing mix for a new product.

Listen and take notes on the four Ps.

- Product: have everything you need to connect to the Internet,
- Price
- Placement
- Promotion
Now listen again and complete the phrases from the presentation.

1 The __________ of our cable package are that you get ...
2 We will be __________ customers through ads on ...
3 Our product will then be immediately __________ to customers in ...
4 We will __________ that customers will have ...
5 We haven’t __________ a price yet ...
6 Because our product is in the __________ phase, our __________ model should ...

2 Which words in the box are used to talk about which P? Sort them into the correct category.

- advertising • appearance • channels of distribution •
- discount • financing • list price • location • logistics •
- media • public relations • quality • service

Product

Price

Placement

Promotion

Can you add any more words to the categories?

DID YOU KNOW?

When people talk about the marketing mix, they often refer to the four Ps: product, price, placement, and promotion. Some people use the term place instead of placement; both terms are just another way to refer to distribution. Some people also talk about seven Ps and include people or participants, processes (takes service into account), and physical evidence (the appearance of your business).
3 Use the following chart to make notes on the four Ps of one of your company’s products or services. Then use your notes to give a short presentation of the product or service to the class.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Product</th>
<th>Price</th>
<th>Placement</th>
<th>Promotion</th>

<tr>
<td>What are the important aspects of your product? Why do people want to buy your product?</td>
<td>What factors affect your price?</td>
<td>When and where is your product available to customers?</td>
<td>List the ways in which you reach customers. What are your contact points?</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

4 Martin is organizing a meeting to discuss the prices for the cable Internet package. Put the following sentences in the correct order to complete the email.

a Could you have a look and let me know if there’s anything you’d like to add or change?
b As you probably know, we need to think about scheduling a meeting to discuss our pricing strategy for our new cable Internet package.
c Hope you all had a nice weekend.
d Please let me know if you can attend by the end of the day.
e How about next Tuesday at 9 a.m.?

USEFUL PHRASES

Writing emails
Remember that not all emails are informal. Business emails to people outside the company tend to be like letters; they follow certain conventions (see below) and are written with punctuation and capital letters. Errors can give a bad impression, so be sure to check your spelling using an online dictionary or the spellcheck function of your email program.

Greetings and closes
Dear Ms Flores—Yours sincerely (very formal)
Hello Geoff—Best wishes (neutral)
Hi Martin—All the best (less formal)

Pleasantries
Hope all’s well with you.
Hope you (all) had a nice weekend.
How was your weekend?

Closes for saying thank you
Many thanks.
Thanks for your help.
Cheers (informal & British)

Tip
Remember to capitalize the first letter in an email (or letter):
Dear Mr Steinblatt
Thank you for your message ...

5 Look at three replies to Martin’s email. Use the words in the box to complete the them.

attachment • attend • best • cheers • hope • input • mind • postpone • see

Hi

Just wanted to let you know that I can ___________ 1 the meeting. I’ve looked at your outline and can’t think of anything to add. ___________ 2 you on Tuesday.

Hello Martin

I’m still at the conference in Darmstadt and won’t be back in town until Wednesday.
Would it be possible to ___________ 3 the meeting? I’m back in the office on Thursday and free all day. If not, I’ll send you my ideas by email. By the way, I couldn’t open the ___________ 4. Could you send it again in a different format?

Tuesday Martin

Tuesday morning is fine for me. I noticed that you didn’t send your message to Laura. Would you ___________ 6 if I invited her to join us? It might be useful to have her ___________ 7. I’ll have a look at the attachment and will get in touch if there’s anything missing.

___________ 8 you had a nice weekend too.
All the ___________ 9
Graham
6 Now read the attachment that Martin sent to his team and find words or phrases that mean the following:

1 when a customer pays the same fee each month/year/etc.
2 to sell a group of things (like products or services) as a package
3 reduced price
4 another word for product launch
5 enhanced features or services that customers have to pay more money for

Cable Internet package pricing model

I have a few questions I'd like everyone to think about in advance of the meeting. As you know, we're introducing a new DSL package, and we need to decide what we should be charging for our services. Some points to consider are:

- What should our pricing model be? A monthly flat fee or charge by data volume?
- Do we want to offer different prices in different regions?
- Should we bundle our services and offer a discount?
- What about adopting a penetration pricing strategy for the roll-out? How long should these prices be valid for (3 months, 6 months, ...)?
- What optional extras shall we offer (e.g. guaranteed 24-hour servicing)?

Please think about these questions, and we can discuss everything in more detail.

7 Match these different pricing models to the definitions.

1 captive product pricing  a pricing goods/services as cheaply as possible
2 economy pricing  b charging a high price for an item where you have a competitive advantage
3 geographical pricing  c charging a high price for a unique high-quality item
4 penetration pricing  d pricing goods at a very low price to encourage people to buy them – often the prices are later raised
5 premium pricing  e pricing according to area where goods are sold
6 price skimming  f pricing one item very low and its complement very high

Now decide which model is being discussed.

A Naturally we need to price our goods lower in countries with a lower per-capita income.

B We at Chamonix Écrit believe the quality of our pens justifies their cost.

C These low prices will only be in effect for the first six months. After that they will be raised by 10–25%.

D Yes, the printers we sell are inexpensive, but we charge quite a bit for the ink cartridges.

E Our own-label brands sugar, flour, and milk have much lower prices than the brand-name competitors.
8 Martin and two members of his team are meeting to discuss pricing. Use the profiles in the Partner Files to take part in the meeting. Try to use the phrases on page 14 for giving your opinion and for agreeing or disagreeing.

9 Look at these terms used to talk about pricing. Can you add three more?

- recommended retail price
- break-even point
- profit margin
- going rate
- price war
- overheads

Now use the words to complete the sentences below.

‘Looking at the competition, €25/month seems to be the ________________ ¹. It’s what most people are charging.’

‘We can sell the modems for €100 each. They only cost €20 in total to produce and distribute, so we would have a healthy ________________ ² of €80.’

‘€59.99 is a good ________________ ³. We can suggest that stores sell it for that much, but if they want to use it as a loss leader and sell it for less, then that’s fine too.’

‘What I’m afraid of is an all-out ________________ ⁴, when our company and the competition are all fighting for the same customers. We don’t want to cut our prices so low that we go out of business.’

‘We need to establish our ________________ ⁵. When does the amount we’re earning cover our costs?’

‘Luckily, we have low ________________ ⁶. Our rent is very low, and we got a great deal on our office equipment.’
10 Other than price, what factors are important for your product differentiation? Think about a product you know and discuss it in terms of these factors.

- quality
- performance
- image
- customer service
- appearance / design

11 Martin is giving a presentation to management about the positioning strategy he has developed with his team. Listen and answer the questions below.

---

1. What is the company’s target market?
2. Why is their product superior to other packages?
3. How can they prove that their product is the best?

Listen again and complete the phrases from the presentation.

1. We are __________________ customers who are...
2. Extensive testing __________________ that we provide...
3. Speed of access is __________________ why our product is better.
4. Another reason is that we __________________ every new customer with a free...

12 Now write a positioning strategy for your company. Include the following points.

1. your target customer
2. what you do for your customer and how you do it
3. how you are better than your competitors

Cheryl Hattiaghandi helps you see what’s in your company’s stars

Cash cows? Dogs? Stars? Are we in the marketing department or in a children’s book?!

Don’t worry, you haven’t clicked on the wrong link. These items all refer to parts of the Boston Matrix, created by members of the Boston Consulting Group to analyse a company’s product portfolio.

While the names are strange, the matrix is extremely useful when writing your marketing plan. Let’s look at each quadrant in more detail.

- Cash cows are mature products that have a large market share and that are earning a lot of money. The market is static, so there’s not much opportunity for growth, but that’s not a problem. These products require little attention from the marketing department.

- Stars are recently-introduced products with a large market share. But, unlike cash cows, the market is growing, so stars have the chance to attract even more new customers. If stars are successful, they become cash cows once the market has stabilized.

- Question marks, as you might guess, are products where no one is positive what’s going on. They have a low market share, but they are also in a growing market area. It’s possible that they will become stars if given time.

- Finally, there are the dogs. Dogs are products which have a low market share in a market that’s not growing. And, as you can guess, the best thing to do with a dog is take it for a walk - outside of your product portfolio. Dogs are in the decline stage of the product life cycle and should probably be retired.

So, cows, question marks, stars, dogs: use this handy tool the next time you’re trying to decide ‘what next’ when writing your marketing plan!

OVER TO YOU

- How useful do you think the Boston Matrix is?
- Can you think of a potential star product or service in your industry that your company doesn’t make or offer?
Creating ads

Look at the advertisement below and analyse it according to the AIDA model. Does it:

catch the audience's Attention, make them Interested,
create Desire, and state the Action the audience should take (e.g. Call now!)?

Do you agree with this model for advertising? Why or why not? Think of a few ads you've seen or heard lately and use the AIDA model to analyse them.

1. Look at the steps involved in organizing an advertising campaign and put them in the correct order.

   a. analyse impact
   b. approve design
   c. choose the media
   d. commission ad agency
   e. define target group
   f. determine the desired response
   g. establish message
   h. place ads

Can you add any other steps? Which steps are you or your company responsible for?

DID YOU KNOW?

The word advertisement is pronounced differently in the UK and the USA; in the UK the stress is on the second syllable [ad'vertisment] whereas in the USA it is on the third syllable [əd'vert'izmənt]. The short form for advertisement is ad (also advert in the UK).

Where do you see a lot of advertising?
What commercials do you like?
What can you not advertise on TV in your country?
When is it very expensive to advertise?
2 Joys of Germany is an organization in charge of promoting tourism in Germany. One of their staff is in London to meet Red Arrow, an advertising agency. Listen and find out why they want to advertise.

☐ to introduce a new product
☐ to promote a special price
☐ to create or maintain awareness for a product
☐ to remarket a product

Now answer the questions below.

1. According to Joys of Germany, what sort of image does Germany have abroad?
2. What do they say are the stereotypes associated with Germany?
3. What kind of visitors does Joys of Germany want to attract to Germany?
4. Why is it important to design advertising which is specific to a certain country?

3 Complete these sentences from the dialogue with the words from the box. Listen again if necessary.

achieve • appeal • appeal • campaign • create • looking • outside • perspective

1. Tell me what you’re ________________ for.
2. But that’s why it’s important for us to ________________ a new image.
3. We think that someone from ________________ will have a fresh ________________...
4. We want to make sure our ads ________________ to people in the UK.
5. I understand what you’re trying to ________________.
6. You need an insider to design an ad ________________ with the maximum ________________.
4 Look at what some people have said when discussing their ad campaigns. Match the highlighted words or phrases (1–6) with their synonyms (a–f).

a. change perceptions
b. generate a buzz
c. have an emotional appeal
d. have a rational appeal
e. rebrand
f. reinforce the existing image

White Noise’s portable music players aren’t popular because they’re the cheapest or even the most technologically advanced products out there. Rather, they’re popular because, quite simply, people love them. The new ad campaign should attract people based on how they feel.

We want to get people talking about our product.

Choritos are currently thought of as a high-fat snack. We need to reinvent our product as healthy and convenient.

The ads should transform people’s ideas about Germany.

Our minivans already dominate the market, and they’re still in the growth stage of their life cycle. So the ads should simply emphasize what people already think: that they’re both safe and fun to drive.

5 You are in charge of commissioning a new ad campaign to promote Soyatastic, a new soya-based drink. Use the notes and the phrases below to explain to an ad agency what you want.

Soyatastic

- doing well in organic grocery stores
- people at conventional grocery stores think drink is boring, plain
  - introducing four new flavours (raspberry, blood orange, mango, blueberry)
- most important → taste
- also → healthy, large sizes are good value for money

6 How do you think advertisements vary between countries? Read the opinions below. Do any of them surprise you?

A I can tell the difference between a German ad and a British one immediately. I find German advertising very direct, whereas British advertising tends to be much more subtle. You know, a British ad for a chocolate bar might be all about something that has nothing to do with chocolate, but which somehow manages to evoke the idea of self-indulgence: a woman in a bath, for example. A German ad for a chocolate bar will always have a chocolate bar in it.

B Henry Ford said that a car can be any colour as long as it's black, and I feel the same way about advertising. A really good ad campaign will work across cultures and appeal to basic human needs – the only thing you need to change is the language.

C I was in Japan a few years ago and was shocked to see how many famous Hollywood stars were advertising everyday products like cars and bath soap. They'd never do ads like that in the US because it would harm their reputation here. I'm not sure why it's OK to do it in Asia, though. But a friend from Kyoto visited me recently, and she mentioned that these days, Japanese companies prefer to use Japanese actors in their ads. Apparently the West is losing its appeal!

D Sure, something like fancy French perfume can be marketed in a similar way around the world: the only thing that changes is how sexy the ad is allowed to be! But the ad campaigns for our wines are completely different in, say, the US and France. Our American ads show a couple drinking wine in a very exclusive restaurant; it's clearly a special occasion. And our French ads show a group of adults, obviously old friends, having a casual meal at home. The product is the same, but the 'packaging' is completely different.

Which opinion refers to:

1 universal advertising?
2 a change in status of foreign stars?
3 differences in advertising styles?
4 a product that has a different status in different cultures?

Think about the industry you work in. How important is it to adapt advertising for different cultures? What differences in advertising have you noticed when travelling abroad?
7 Two colleagues at Red Arrow are discussing which advertising channels they should use in the Joys of Germany ad campaign. Listen to the dialogue and make a list of the channels they mention in the table below. Then add one more item to each category.

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Print media</th>
<th>Online</th>
<th>Outdoor</th>
<th>Other</th>

8 Match the two parts of the phrases to make collocations from the dialogue.

1. eye-catching
2. to devote
3. good
4. to make
5. print
6. repeat
7. traditional an issue to something channels exposure opportunity sense

Now use the correct form of the collocations above to complete the sentences.

1. Our area newspaper often _________ to presenting local businesses, and many of the shopowners see this as a _________ to advertise.

2. _________ is essential for getting your message across to customers. If they only see your advertisement once, they won’t remember it.

3. We operate on a very tight budget, so for us it doesn’t _________ to advertise on _________ such as radio or television. We focus on online marketing instead.

4. What I like most about our new ad campaign are the _________.
   No one could forget that picture of the penguin and the dog!

5. One of the disadvantages of advertisements in _________ is sometimes your advert gets ‘lost’, for example when there are several of them on the same page.
Tracy and Justin, two colleagues at Red Arrow, meet to decide how to spend the advertising budget for Joys of Germany. First look at the information below. Then take the role of Tracy (Partner A) or Justin (Partner B) and use your notes in the Partner Files to discuss the various opinions. Choose two options for the campaign.

Budget €50,000
- Ad in large general magazines: €6,000 per issue
- Ad in small specialist magazines: €2,000 per issue
- Buying keywords: €100–1,000 per word
- Two-week bus ads in major British cities: €500 per city
- Postcards: €1,000 for 50,000 postcards + €1,000 distribution costs

As part of the campaign, Tracy and Justin have come up with this print ad. How effective do you think it is? Do you think it will appeal to the target audience? What does it say about Germany?
Dear Tracy,

Thank you very much for the ad. We are very happy with the simple design, _________¹ we think we can use the grid format in many different types of ads. The look is unique without being too unconventional.

_________², we’re a little concerned about the photograph at the bottom.

Germany is __________³ a popular destination for cyclists already, and so we would rather emphasize another, undiscovered feature of the country. _______⁴ a photograph of a fashion designer at work instead? _________⁵, we like your inclusion of a club photograph, but the image is quite dark. Of course, so are clubs – but it would be nice to find something a little brighter.

_________⁶, though, we’re very happy with what you’ve done!

_________⁷ give me a call if you’d like to discuss the images in more detail.

_________⁸, I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Regards,
Carsten

USEFUL PHRASES

Giving feedback
When giving feedback, try to use the sandwich approach. Begin and end your email or conversation with positive feedback (the bread), and put any criticism in the middle (the filling). That way you begin and end on a positive note, and it is more likely that the person you are criticizing will still feel confident and motivated.

Positive feedback
We’re very happy with what you’ve done.
We really like ...

Criticicism
We think that the colours are not bright enough./too bright.
We think that the images might be too ...

Remember to soften criticism by using words such as a little, quite and rather.
We’re a little concerned about ...
... but the image is quite dark.

Finally, be specific about what changes you want.
... it would be nice to find something a little brighter.
How about ... instead?
12 Use phrases from page 33 to give feedback on ads in this unit or on any ads you have seen recently in magazines or newspapers. Try to use the sandwich approach.

13 Tracy also recommended advertising via the internet and sent Carsten the link to the following article. Read the article and answer the questions below.

How effective is your website?

The internet is now the most popular medium on the planet for giving and getting information. Everyone has their favourite sites where they can get the answers to almost any question, where they can buy any article they want, or where they can talk to friends, swap music and films or even publish their first novel.

So, how good is the web for promoting your products? Imagine you had a new product you wanted to sell. What would you have to do to get the best from the internet?

First of all you need to create your website. The most essential part of the site is the home page. This should be clear and easy to navigate and show visitors what lies behind on other pages. Encouraging visitors to your site by using keywords is useful and you might need to use a SEO or Search Engine Optimizer. These companies ensure that your site is at the top of lists when users enter certain keywords into a search engine like Yahoo. Google has a very good method of directing enquiries to the appropriate sites through its Adwords tool. When a customer is looking for a particular product, such as a holiday villa in Turkey, advertisements from companies who provide such services appear instantly on the screen. The advertisers pay only when the ad is clicked. Google claims that you can reach 80% of internet users by using keywords.

Search engines are not the only answer to successful advertising online. Links to other websites mean that you can double or triple the traffic to your site. So if you sell cookery books it is good to link to sites about cooking.

Another option is banner advertising where you pay to appear on other sites and customers click through to your site. Some surfers find this type of advertising annoying but it does get results. You normally pay for such advertising on a CPM basis (cost-per-thousand).

Whatever tactics you use, remember that the number of websites, and therefore your competition, is growing every single second.

According to the article what are the advantages of using keywords?

How effective do you think this form of advertising is?

14 Carsten and a colleague have brainstormed the following list of keywords to buy for Joys of Germany.

- holiday in Europe
- dynamic
- Germany
- clubbing
- cycling
- fashion
- nightlife

Do you agree? Are there any words you would add or delete?

Now think about a product or service you are advertising. Which keywords would you choose to promote it?

Creating the ad that will work for you

Do any of these scenarios sound familiar?

- Annette Torrefazioni was very excited when she first met Colin Durrell of Stone & Slade. 'Colin was extremely professional, and had worked with a number of luxury food sellers,' Torrefazioni explained. 'His portfolio of ads exactly matched the image our company wanted. But once I signed the contract, I was shocked to learn that Colin wouldn't be handling my account. Instead, a junior staff member just out of art school would be designing my ad. When the first proofs came, I was really disappointed. It just wasn't what I had in mind.'

- 'We were really impressed with their client list,' says Thorsten Sauer, marketing manager at Durchfahrt GmbH. 'They were working with some of the top names in the industry. I didn't realize this would mean that our small account would be at the bottom of their priority list. I realized afterwards that we should have gone with a company that specialized in dealing with small firms.'

- Henri La Fontaine told of his experience with Zzzzip, a medium-sized advertising agency based in London: 'A friend of a friend told me about Zzzzip. Craig was quite professional and friendly, and we signed a contract immediately. However, a few days later I found out that our biggest competitor was working with Zzzzip too!' Craig didn't see the problem, but I really wasn't comfortable with the situation. Luckily, he let me dissolve the contract.'

To avoid mishaps like the ones above, it's best to interview prospective agencies carefully. Here are the top seven tips for questions to ask:

1. Do you handle accounts our size? What is your experience working with small/medium-sized/large companies?
2. Do you have an area of expertise? What is it?
3. Can you give me a list of current and former clients to talk to?
4. What is your fee structure?
5. Who will be handling the actual project?
6. Who worked on the ads in your portfolio? Are those people still with the company?
7. Are you working with one of our competitors?

Over to You

- Have you ever had a particularly good (or bad) experience with an ad agency? What went right (or wrong)?
- Do you agree or disagree with the tips above? Which are most difficult to put into practice? Why?
- Are there any other suggestions you can add?
Can you add any distribution channels below? Which channels does your company use? Why?

1. Look at this website listing for a range of kitchenware. Is this a good way for the manufacturer to promote and sell its goods?
Stefanie from the manufacturer Herschfeld calls her contact at buyme.com, to complain about low sales. Listen to their conversation and decide whether the statements below are true or false. Correct the false statements.

1. Sales of Herschfeld’s goods on buyme.com have been lower than expected.
2. Herschfeld did not offer buyme.com a trade discount.
3. Herschfeld’s real-world retailers are upset because buyme.com offers lower prices than they do.
4. Stefanie wants buyme.com to include two images of all the Herschfeld products they sell.
5. She also wants them to remove the prices from Herschfeld’s products online.
6. The changes will be on the site later today.

Now complete the crossword with words from the dialogue.

Across
2. a product that is being highlighted for a short amount of time, e.g. on a website: a ... product

DID YOU KNOW?
Franchising began in the mid-19th century and now dominates the retail sector in many countries, especially the US. Early American examples include automobile dealerships and the telegraph system, which was controlled by Western Union but operated by different companies. The best example of franchising today is probably in the restaurant sector. American fast food chains started using franchises in the 1950s and the global success of McDonalds is largely based on its franchise-based business model.

At Total Telemarketing, we start the process with what we call a ‘discovery’ phase. We build a clear picture of your business objectives and your market. We then use the information we have collected to plan your telemarketing strategy. And we make sure that both sides have clear expectations about the strategy.

Once we have planned the approach, we test it with a ‘pilot’ project. This is to check if the strategy will function for you and for your market. We make sure that our plans integrate seamlessly with your marketing efforts.

As part of your telemarketing strategy, we develop and maintain a comprehensive database of contacts and potential clients. This makes sure you have a continuous flow of good quality sales leads.

The performance of the strategy is regularly reviewed to make sure we are delivering what you need. Written reports keep you up to date with the success of the approach.

10 The Geldsburg marketing team have also decided to do a direct mailing for the scanner and have commissioned Direct Sales, a British direct marketing firm, to draw up a letter. Read the letter and summarize the benefits of the hand-held scanners.

GELDSBURG
Heimplatz 101, 8001 Zurich

Dear Ms Christie

We are writing to introduce a faster and more effective way to let your customers pay for their purchases. Our new hand-held barcode scanners allow your customers to pay for their purchases where they are, without having to find a till.

Our scanners will connect remotely to verify credit or debit card payment. Customers can sign for their purchases on the scanner itself. And the scanners come with a handy adjustable belt, so your shop assistants can easily carry them at all times. The easy-to-read display is visible in all lighting conditions.

The machine automatically prints out a 'paid' sticker with the name of the product and the date, to ensure that only products which have been paid for are taken from the store. This is a feature that no other scanner on the market offers.

To learn more about the scanners, view our web presentation on our website (www.geldsburg.com) or call us on 0800 583 9910.

We look forward to doing business with you!

Best wishes
Your Geldsburg Team
11 Below are some tips on direct marketing. Work with a partner to rank the tips from most (a) to least (g) important. Which of these tips does the letter in exercise 10 follow?

- a Emphasize what makes you different from the competition (such as price, delivery services, after-service sales).
- b Use words that sell, such as new and free. (Trial periods and money-back guarantees can encourage customers to try a new product.)
- c Use white space. (Keep the letter to the point and use short paragraphs and bulleted or numbered lists to make points. Make it easy for the reader to get through the whole letter.)
- d Put yourself in your customers’ shoes. (Focus on benefits, not product features, and build rapport by saying you and your.)
- e Use product endorsements (quotes from satisfied customers).
- f Call to action! Tell the reader what to do, e.g. Call now to ....
- g Restate your USP in your P.S. (Response rate testing indicates that the typical reader’s eye moves down the page to the P.S. before he or she reads the rest of the letter!)

12 The Geldsburg marketing team has called Direct Sales with some feedback on the letter. Use these notes and the tips above to write a second draft. (Or write a first draft of your own direct marketing letter.) Try to use phrases from the Useful Phrases box below.

What’s the best marketing idea you’ve ever seen? This question was the subject of a recent poll conducted by a marketing trade publication. Look at some answers given by marketing and advertising professionals below.

John Webster, Marketing Manager

The best marketing idea I’ve ever seen? That would have to be a butcher’s shop in my town. They sent sausages in the form of flower bouquets to all the local catering firms! I’m not sure how much new business they got, but everyone had a good laugh.

Vicky Chen, Creative Director

I was impressed by a rock band who put MP3 files with the title of their new single on all the major music exchange websites. When the fans downloaded the file, they heard an advertisement for the band’s new record instead of the single. They found this so funny that they began emailing the single to friends, and album sales skyrocketed.

Veronica Weiss, Marketing Assistant

If you buy ten books or more in a year at Claridge’s Books, you’ll be sent a free book on your birthday. It certainly encourages me to buy from them instead of from one of the larger chain stores or online bookshops.

Craig Lukasiewicz, Director of Online Marketing

One thing I’ve noticed recently is advertising products in blogs. The blog will look like a website created and maintained by an individual, but in fact, it’s created by a company. I suspect this will become more popular in the next few years. But whether this is ethical or not is another question.

OVER TO YOU

- What are some of the more unusual or clever marketing efforts that you’ve heard of?
- How effective do you think these types of marketing campaigns are?
- Do you know of any unsuccessful marketing campaigns? Why did they go wrong? How could they have been improved?
Presenting your public face

Company newsletters, home pages, press releases, sponsoring, and press conferences are all ways to promote your company. Find an example of each below.

1. Vadi Vision is proud to announce that it will be sponsoring a new campaign to promote eye health awareness.

You'll be pleased to hear that in the last year, Vadi Vision has pulled ahead of its main competitor to win the market share in optical sales.

2. When Mr Vadi started Vadi Vision 21 years ago, he had no idea of what a success it would be.

3. A marketing consultant is giving a presentation called How to make your website into an effective marketing tool. First look at the features below. Do you think it's a good or bad idea for websites to have them? Now listen to the presentation. Does the consultant agree with you?

3. Which company made the ‘look inside’ option popular?
4. What are two examples of the ‘look inside’ option?
5. Who should check the content on your website if you are writing in a foreign language?

2. Use the information from the presentation (you can find the transcript on pages 71–72) and your own ideas to make a checklist of dos and don’ts. Then use this checklist to examine the strengths and weaknesses of your own (or another) company’s home page.

Finally, glasses that any athlete feels confident to wear.
Claudia Felber works for the marketing department of Vadi Vision, a Swiss lens manufacturer. In order to raise her company’s profile in the UK, she has been asked to choose a charity to sponsor. First read these excerpts from letters sent to her company.

1. We at the London-based Sleet Street Gallery would like to offer you the opportunity to sponsor the framing of our photographs for our forthcoming exhibition. In exchange for your help, we will include your logo on all promotional materials and within the gallery itself. We believe that an exhibition showcasing modern views of the city is an ideal way for a company manufacturing eye care products to promote itself abroad.

2. You surely realize the importance of regular check-ups to ensure healthy eyes, but unfortunately many people in Britain don’t. I am therefore requesting a donation towards developing a public campaign. ‘Eyes on the Eyes’ will bring travelling eye examination vans to communities around the UK. The logos of the sponsoring companies will be featured on all vans.

3. SEEING FURTHER is organizing donations of old eye glasses to be made to low-income communities in Central Asia. This will be a high-profile campaign in which several celebrities will be participating, and is sure to receive extensive media coverage. To be included in our sponsor list, we are asking for a donation of £1,000.

Now work with a partner to role-play a discussion between Claudia (Partner A) and her colleague (Partner B) about which company to sponsor.

DID YOU KNOW?

Charity is a term that refers to donating money, goods, or time to people in need. Particularly in the US, companies are often judged by their social actions as well as their financial success, and many companies involved in charitable community efforts describe themselves as corporate citizens. The causes they choose to support generally reflect the company’s target market.

Some larger companies allow employees to have paid time off to work on local community projects, or even to have ‘career breaks’ to do charity work.

Do you know of any companies in your country that do this?

Vadi Vision in the News

Vadi Vision has recently ___________¹ in a venture to help people in Britain get the eye care they need. Vadi Vision has ___________² a travelling eye inspection van which allows people to get a check-up without having to ___________³ an appointment. By ___________⁴ Eyes on the Eyes, Vadi Vision shows its commitment to helping British eyes. We don’t just want to ___________⁵ solve eye problems: we also want to ___________⁶ those problems from happening.

7 Claudia is preparing a press release for a new product. She calls Chris, one of Vadi Vision’s good customers, to ask him for a testimonial. Listen to the telephone conversation. What quote does Chris give Claudia to use?

Now decide whether the statements which follow are true or false. Correct the false statements.

1 Claudia found out about Chris and how much he likes Vadi Vision’s lenses because he wrote her an email.
2 Chris doesn’t want to say that Vadi Vision’s lenses are the best because he doesn’t want to make the other suppliers that he works with unhappy.
3 Many of Eye Care Central’s customers have heard about Vadi Vision through their sponsorship of Eyes on the Eyes.
4 Vadi Vision will be giving away free samples of their lenses at a trade fair next week.

8 Match the two parts to make sentences from the dialogue. Listen again if necessary.

USEFUL PHRASES

Writing press releases

1. Use a headline (in bold) that summarizes what the press release is about.
2. Here are some typical ways to start a press release.
   [Company] announced today that ...
   [Company] is proud to announce the launch of the new ...
   [Company] is introducing ...
3. Remember to list contact information at the top of the release, and tell the readers in the body of the press release where they can go to get details:
   For more information about ..., contact ...
   More information about ... can be found at www.company.com.
   Businesses interested in more information on ... should contact ...

9 Claudia has written a press release for the new lenses. Put the parts of the press release in the right order.

   a. Contact: Claudia Felber, claudia.felber@vadivision.com Telephone: + 41 20 759 29 55
      Fax: + 41 20 759 29 60
      www.vadivision.com

   b. The Diamond Line ultra-hard lens is suitable for glasses wearers with single and bifocal vision problems. And not only are the lenses ultra-hard, but they're also extra-thin. This makes them especially attractive for those glasses wearers requiring high-prescription lenses.

   c. Eyecare professionals interested in information and samples should contact their Vadi Vision representative or send an email inquiry to diamondline@vadivision.com.

   d. Vadi Vision is one of the best known and most respected eyewear companies in Europe. As Chris Baker of Eye Care Central in London testifies: 'Our customers often ask for Vadi Vision lenses by name.'

   e. Zürich, 12 March 2011.

   f. Vadi Vision is pleased to announce the release of a new ultra-hard lens. This lens is more durable than any other product on the market.

   g. FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

   h. Vadi Vision releases a new ultra-hard lens

Does your company have a style guide for writing press releases in English? Work with a partner to write a press release for your own (or a fictitious) company. Try to use phrases from the box above. See also the article on page 52.

Now write a holiday letter to send to your company's English-speaking contacts.
Read the following article from a magazine on public relations.

Writing a killer press release

You’ve all seen them: the press releases that would put any reader to sleep. You’ve barely glanced at the title before you’re ready to curl up in bed. Campbell Associates is moving into cutting-edge new headquarters! ‘But who cares about Campbell Associates? Who are Campbell Associates, anyway?’ you ask yourself. It takes more than an exclamation mark to catch a reader’s attention. So read on for some tips on how to write a press release that will get read – and published!

1 Keep things real. Do not exaggerate when you write. Instead, make sure you deal with the facts. Journalists get dozens of press releases a day, and words like ‘revolutionary’ and ‘ground-breaking’ get old very quickly, especially when these words are describing very ordinary events.

2 See the story from the reporter’s point of view. Present your news as a story. The focus doesn’t have to be on your company. What you want is something that people will want to read about. So focus on the people who use your products and services, and that will make your story come to life.

3 Create a headline that will grab your readers’ attention. Brainstorm four or five titles for an important press release, and then come back to them the next morning. See which one seems the most interesting to you.

4 Proofread carefully. A badly-written press release won’t get read. Get help if you need it: there are a number of good, professional PR agencies out there if you’re not able to write perfect copy in English, for example.

5 Keep it short. Ideally, give the press release to someone who doesn’t know anything about the topic, and have them look at it for fifteen seconds. When they give it back to you, can they tell you the most important points? If not, you need to revise what you’ve written.

OVER TO YOU

Marketing through trade fairs

Look at these products that companies often give away to their customers and discuss the questions below with a partner.

1. What do these items say about the image the company wants to project?
2. Which giveaway would you most like to receive?
3. What giveaways does your company have? Would you like to introduce any new ones?
Kirstin Butler works for the marketing department of Natural Solutions, a biotech company. She has received a brochure about a trade fair that takes place in London each year. Read this excerpt from the brochure and answer the questions below.

1. What kind of trade fair is International Biotech Europe?
2. Who might book a stand?
3. How many events are there?
4. What marketing campaign are the organizers planning?
5. Who will receive the guide before the event?
6. How much will press releases cost?

International Biotech Europe

The benefits of exhibiting:

So much more than just an exhibition space

By taking part in International Biotech & Lab Automation Europe you put your company at the heart of the largest biotechnology market in Europe. And as soon as you book your exhibition stand, your company becomes part of one of the most comprehensive and high-profile marketing campaigns of the year in this sector. Just look at all the added benefits that are included in the cost of your exhibition space:

Publicity

Your company and products will be featured in the marketing campaign to tens of thousands of professionals across the UK and Europe. The campaign will include direct mail, email and web marketing, advertising and extensive editorial coverage in all the key magazines and journals.

Promote your company online and offline

Profile your company, products, and services in the International Biotech & Lab Automation Europe guide published in both print and web format and available to your customers and prospects before, during, and after the event.

Raise your profile with the press

Our experienced PR team will be promoting the event and exhibiting companies to all the key publications. You are also invited to place your press releases and company information in the International Biotech & Lab Automation Europe press office free of charge.

Access to additional audience from co-located event

Exhibitors at International Biotech & Lab Automation Europe will benefit from being able to promote their products and services to an additional audience from the other event. All visitors will be free to move between the two shows.
2 Match the phrases from the brochure to the definitions.

1 exhibition stand a extra advantages

h the most important magazines and newspapers

3 Kirstin is telling her boss, Paolo Massini, why she thinks they should attend the trade fair. Listen and answer the questions below.

1 How well known is the event?
2 Why is Paolo not sure about the benefits of the marketing campaign?
3 In Kirstin's opinion, what is the most important benefit of the trade fair?
4 What is Paolo going to do this afternoon?
5 When is Paolo going to make a decision?

4 Paolo has agreed that Natural Solutions should attend the trade fair and asks Kirstin to get more information. Use the notes below to write an email to Barbara Shields, the trade fair organizer.

- discount for having stand during the whole trade fair?
- social events?
- facilities? (Internet access?)
- restaurant nearby for customer reception?
- accommodation? (no info on website)
One of the customer events that Natural Solutions wants to hold during the trade fair is a reception at a nearby restaurant. Kirstin asks her assistant, Michael May, to write the English version of the invitation to the event. Complete the invitation with the words in the box.

DID YOU KNOW?
During trade fairs, many companies organize social events for their customers and business partners. These events provide an excellent opportunity for business people to ‘meet and greet’ in an informal setting. Business is seldom discussed at such events. The focus instead is on relationship-building through small talk and introducing mutual friends. Such events are also a rare and useful chance to speak to the competition and find out more about one’s rivals.
Kirstin and Michael are manning the stand at the trade fair. Match their answers (a–g) with the visitors' questions and comments (1–7).

1. Excuse me, are these memory sticks to take away?
2. Would it be possible to be put on your mailing list?
3. I'd like to discuss this with my boss first. How can I reach you?
4. Do you have some information I can take away?
5. What does your company do?
6. Do you make natural cosmetics as well?
7. I'm just browsing.

a. No, we don't. We focus on medications.
b. Yes, certainly. If you just give me your card, I'll be happy to add your name.
c. Here's my card. Feel free to call or email me.
d. They are indeed. They've got our URL printed on them, so do have a look at our website too when you get a chance. Or do you have any questions for me now?
e. Well, just let me know if you need anything.
f. We use natural sources to create effective medications.
g. Yes, let me give you one of our brochures. It lists the points we've just discussed.

Listen to the dialogues to check your answers. Then practise reading them with a partner.

What are the five questions that trade fair visitors are most likely to ask you about your products or services? Write them down.

Now exchange your questions with a partner. Take turns asking and answering questions in a trade fair situation.

6 Hi everyone,

You'll be pleased to hear
Look at what five marketing people say about trade fairs. Which opinion(s) do you agree with?

I think trade fairs are a complete waste of time when you factor in the cost of travel and lost working time. You usually come back feeling exhausted. And there's no way to guarantee that people will stop at your stand. Once, I went all the way to Paris, and I had only two visitors!

Something that really annoys me is when companies hire completely inexperienced people—usually pretty young women—to promote their products by handing out giveaways or whatever. Meanwhile, the marketing people who do know about the products are usually hanging out at the stand drinking cocktails and talking about anything but business! It's such a waste of time.

Some of my best contacts have come via trade fairs. You can send all the emails and brochures you want, and you can make follow-up phone calls, but there's nothing like a 30-second conversation face-to-face. It's much easier to explain the benefits of a product when you have it in your hands.

I love the buzz of a trade fair! It's not just an opportunity to sell. It's also a chance to check up on the competition and see what new ideas are out there. You can go up to a rival's stand and ask questions that they would never answer if you sent them an email. It really helps to stay in touch with the business.

The thing I hate most about trade fairs? It's the socializing. It's very easy to talk about my product and business in general, but I never know what to say when I go to receptions.

OVER TO YOU

• What do you like and dislike about trade fairs?
• Does your company attend trade fairs? Why or why not? If yes, which ones?
• What are the advantages and disadvantages of having a stand at a trade fair?
• What suggestions do you have for making the most of a trade fair visit?
Test yourself!

UNIT 1, Exercise 10
File 1

Partner A
You work in the marketing department of your country's national rail service. You and your partner have been asked to choose three words or phrases to serve as your organization's brand values and then to present your ideas to the board of directors. Other teams have also been asked to propose brand values and the team with the best ideas will get a promotion.

You think the brand values that represent your company are reliability, comfort, and (think of your own).

Work with your partner to choose the three brand values your team wants to present. Then prepare reasons why these values are the most important.

UNIT 2, Exercise 9
File 2

Partner A
You work for There & Back, a European budget airline. The airline currently flies between London, Paris, Rome, Berlin, Barcelona and Amsterdam. You want to add two travel destinations in the next year, and are commissioning a market research firm to determine which of the destinations below are best:

- Athens
- Brussels
- Lisbon
- Marseilles
- Sofia
- Warsaw

You would prefer a focus group for your market research, but you need to discuss this with your partner first. Work together to decide on the best data collection method to use.

Then prepare a list of survey questions, and take turns to answer them (or give the survey to another pair in your class).

UNIT 3, Exercise 8
File 3

First choose or fill in information to complete your profile. Then use your profile to meet people at a reception and make small talk.

- Name: Erik/Erika
- Title: Sales representative
- Company: Swedish Healing
- Hotel:  □ Best Western (big, noisy, good bar)
  □ Angel Arms (small, friendly, great breakfast)
  □ Mrs Long's Bed & Breakfast (quiet, outside of town – inconvenient)
  □ Ibis (big, convenient, bad food)
- Home: Sweden
- Company focus: Treatments for depression
- Plans after conference: □ Go straight home, lots of work
  □ Take train to Scotland, tour the Highlands
  □ Several client meetings in London area
UNIT 5, Exercise 9
Partner A
You are Volker Harding. You have written the email on page 41 and now receive a phone call from Deborah Waters from Total Telemarketing. Note the following points:
• Long-term campaign, so you want to pay per call
• Need someone to begin asap
• Don’t want to be involved at all (Total Telemarketing should handle everything)

UNIT 6, Exercise 5
Partner A
You are Claudia Felber. You have made the following notes:
Sleet Gallery — nice idea, but what kind of photos? Appropriate for corporate image?
’Eyes on the Eyes’ — is it really necessary? Will it attract attention from our target market (wealthier customers)?
Seeing Further — sure to attract lots of media coverage, and helps a community with a real need

UNIT 1, Exercise 10
Partner B
You work in the marketing department of your country's national rail service. You and your partner have been asked to choose three words or phrases to serve as your organization's brand values and then to present your ideas to the board of directors. Other teams have also been asked to propose brand values and the team with the best ideas will get a promotion.

You think the brand values that represent your company are good value for money, environmentally aware, and ________________ (think of your own).

Work with your partner to choose the three brand values your team wants to present. Then prepare reasons why these values are the most important.

UNIT 3, Exercise 8
Partner B
You are Carl/Carole and think it would be better to...
• bundle services and offer a big discount in the first few months.
• use geographical pricing since your company faces more competition in some parts of the country than in others.

UNIT 3, Exercise 8
Partner C
You are Geoff/Gillian and think it would be a good idea to give away free cable modems for customers to use. Modems should only be compatible with your company's technology. (You don’t want customers to switch to another company!)

UNIT 2, Exercise 9
Partner B
You work for There & Back, a European budget airline. The airline currently flies between London, Paris, Rome, Berlin, Barcelona, and Amsterdam. You want to add two travel destinations in the next year, and are commissioning a market research firm to determine which of the destinations below are best:

Athens
Brussels
Lisbon
Marseilles
Sofia
Warsaw

You would prefer a street interview for your market research, but you need to discuss this with your partner first. Work together to decide on the best data collection method to use.

Then prepare a list of survey questions, and take turns to answer them (or give the survey to another pair in your class).

Support
Company should be involved → better results

UNIT 6, Exercise 5 File 15

Partner B
You are Christian/e Thielemann. You have made the following notes:

Sleet Gallery – great idea, and if the art is controversial, will attract more attention!
target market: rich people, and rich people like art!
'Eyes on the Eyes' – could be interesting, and vans will get lots of attention Seeing Further – media coverage will only last for a week or so (when campaign is launched). And we want to reach people in Britain, not Central Asia!

- those who answer usually skip half the questions

Method: online survey

Advantages: free

Disadvantages:
- not appropriate for this company's target group as customers tend not to buy from the website
- could lead to a skewed sample

Method: individual interviews (focus groups or street interviews)

Advantages:
- allow people to examine a prototype, leading to more informed responses
- usually has the best response rate

Disadvantages: very expensive

Method: telephone survey

Advantages:
- not as expensive as individual interviews
- allows the company to focus on its target market based on user profiles

Disadvantages: none

An online survey is the cheapest option. Doing individual interviews (focus groups or street interviews) is the most expensive option.

   Dear Ms Shields,

   I'm writing with some questions about participating in International Biotech Europe.

   First of all, could you let me know whether exhibitors receive a discount for having a stand during the entire trade fair? I would also appreciate some details on the facilities available at the venue; for example, is there wireless Internet access? Also, what social events are planned? And are there any restaurants nearby that are appropriate for a customer reception?

   Finally, I couldn't locate an accommodation guide on your web page. I would be grateful if you could recommend some hotels convenient to the exhibition centre.

   Thank you very much for your help. I look forward to hearing from you.

   Yours sincerely,

   Kirstin Butler

UNIT 1, Exercise 5

Anna Well, all marketing departments are different, aren’t they?
Rob Yes. At my company, Ben and I are the marketing department!
Anna I know what you mean. I used to work for quite a small company doing all of their marketing. But the company here is a bit bigger. We have separate departments for sales and marketing. So, let me just give you some names. As you know, I’m the public relations officer here and I report directly to Sabrina, who’s the director of marketing. My assistant is Uwe. You can always give him a call if you can’t reach me.
Rob Wait, Anna, let me just write this down. Sabrina and ... um, how do you spell your assistant’s name?
Anna That’s U-W-E. Uwe.
Rob Got you.
Anna And if you need to talk to somebody about individual products, then you should contact Vittore or his assistant, Thomas.
Rob Ah, what was that again? Vee ...?
Anna Vittore – he’s Italian. You spell that V-I-double-T-O-R-E.
Rob OK. And Thomas. That’s easy enough.
Anna Right. Finally, Sylvia is responsible for the image of our various brands.
Rob Great! That’s very helpful.

UNIT 2, Exercise 2

Corinna Well, a postal survey would be quite cheap.
Heike That’s true, but I don’t think it would be very effective.
Rupert Neither do I. After all, every time I get one of those I usually put it straight in the bin. And the people who do answer usually skip half the questions. I think an online survey would get much better results.
Corinna Well, it would be free, which is nice, but I don’t think all our customers use our website, actually. They tend to buy our phones in shops, so I’m not sure how many relevant responses we’d get. We may end up with a skewed sample.
Heike What about individual interviews? If we met people, we could show them a prototype and let them examine it. That way they could give a more informed response.
Rupert Yes, and we’d also have a better response rate. So, we could either organize a focus group and invite four to six people to take part or do a street interview, and just stop people on the street and ask them questions. What do you think, Corinna?
Corinna Well, both options have their strengths and weaknesses, but to be honest, interviews like that usually cost a fortune. I personally think that a telephone survey is the best. We can look at the user profiles we have and just call members of our target market, you know, parents with young children.
Heike I agree completely. We should definitely focus on our target group.
Rupert Yes, but what about the people without young children like grandparents, who buy the phone as a present for their grandchildren.
Heike Mmm, good point. It looks like we’ll have to ...

UNIT 1, Exercise 7

1 We have three main brand values which we try to project in all our internal and external communication. The first is ‘quality’. Our customers associate us with the highest quality products. The second is ‘safety’. As you probably know, our products are widely seen as the safest on the market. And the third is ‘environmental care’, which is a relatively new brand value for us, but one which will become increasingly important in the future.

2 I’d like to tell you something about our brand values. The first, and most important, is ‘trust’. In a business like ours, customers have to trust us completely, and that’s something we can promote through our brand. Then we have ‘innovation’. We have always had a reputation for coming up with new products, and we try to emphasize that through our brand. Another key brand value is ‘customer focus’. For us, the customer always comes first, and we want to constantly remind both ourselves and our customers of that fact.

3 Let me just move on to talk a little about our brand values. It will come as no surprise to you that our top brand value is ‘great value for money’. That’s something we continually communicate in our marketing. The next is ‘fun’. Hopefully that is obvious from our logo and corporate design. Finally we have ‘honesty’. We want customers to feel that we tell them the truth.

UNIT 2, Exercise 6

Greg Inside the Market, Greg speaking.
Heike Hi, Greg. It’s Heike from Euphony.
Greg Oh, hello, Heike. Good to hear from you. How are things in Germany?
Heike Not too bad. Listen, Greg, I’m calling because we’d like to do a survey for a new series of mobile phones for children and I’d like you to handle it for us.
Greg Sounds interesting. What type of survey did you have in mind?
Heike We decided that a telephone survey would best fit our needs.
Greg Good. OK, let me just get a pen and we can discuss the details. OK, so, what exactly do you need to find out?
Heike We’d like you to find out more about what our British target group expects from a phone like this.
Greg OK, so you want to collect qualitative data?
Heike Yes, but also quantitative: the number of people interested, what they're willing to pay, etc.

Greg All right. What are the most important points?

Heike Price, and what features potential customers would want the phone to have.

Greg And what sort of demographic information should we be collecting?

Heike Just basic information, such as income and education.

Greg Any psychographic details? Should we ask about their attitudes and values towards children, for instance?

Heike That would be interesting information, of course, but to be honest, we don't want to overload the survey. If it's too long people will just get frustrated. And we want to keep our respondent pool as wide as possible.

Greg Fair enough.

Heike So, could you tell me how long it will take to prepare the survey? And when can we expect to get the survey results?

Greg I'll need to speak to a few colleagues here, and then get back to you. Can I give you a call on.say, Friday?

Heike That would be great. And I'll send you an email to confirm what we've discussed.

Greg Wonderful. So, talk to you on Friday!

UNIT 4, Exercise 2

Tracy OK, so tell me what you're looking for.

Carsten Well. We want to do something a bit more interesting than sausages and the Black Forest. Most of our market research shows that Germany still has a boring, traditional image abroad. As we showed during the World Cup, we have the tourist infrastructure and lots of attractions but Italy, for example, still attracts far more foreign tourists than we do.

Tracy Maybe because of the weather?

Carsten That's one reason, I agree. But that's why it's important for us to create a new image. We need to remind people that a holiday doesn't have to be hot to be fun.

Tracy Interesting. Tell me more.

Carsten Well we'd like to go beyond the stereotypes: great composers, the Oktoberfest, white wines... The people who are interested in these things are already coming to Germany. We need to attract new visitors who aren't yet aware of the other side of Germany.

Tracy I see. So why do you want to work with us?

Carsten We want to work with someone based in the UK. We think that someone from outside will have a fresh perspective and be able to rebrand us better. Every country has its advertising culture and we want to make sure our ads appeal to people in the UK.

Tracy OK, I understand what you're trying to achieve. And if I may say so, I think that you're right. Advertising norms are different in each country, and you need an insider to design an ad campaign with the maximum appeal.

UNIT 4, Exercise 7

Tracy As far as traditional channels go, I think they should focus on print media, especially magazines, and possibly the travel sections of some larger newspapers.

Justin That makes sense. Magazines and newspapers often devote an issue to travel, and that would be a good opportunity to highlight Germany.

Tracy What about TV ads?

Carsten I don't think that's a good idea. Just an ad or two will use up almost the entire budget, and we can't afford the repeat exposure that a good ad campaign would need.

Justin That's true. Banner ads, on the other hand, would make sense. People often go online to travel portals like Expedia and Hotwire without knowing where they want to travel to. They just want to go somewhere for the weekend. Seeing our ads would encourage them to check out Germany.

Tracy Good point. And what about postcards? I can see those being very effective with a campaign like this. We could have different themes for different venues: highlight outdoor activities for postcards distributed in gyms, for example.

Justin Yes, and postcards are popular among the 18-35 group, which local of Germany are targeting. We could also do bus ads in major UK cities.

Tracy OK, so I think our task is clear. We need eye-catching images and a good slogan that we can use in a variety of places.
UNIT 5, Exercise 2

Secretary Buyme.com. How can I help you?
Stefanie Hello. Can I speak to John Bradwell, please?
Secretary Just a moment. I'll put you through.
John Hello?
Stefanie Hello, John. It's Stefanie Schwarz from Herschfeld here.
John Ah, Stefanie. Nice to hear from you. How are things?
Stefanie Not so good, I'm afraid.
John Oh dear.
Stefanie That's actually why I'm calling. It's about our listings on your website. As you know, we offered buyme.com a large trade discount on our kitchen appliances based on the sales projections you presented.
John Of course.
Stefanie Well, sales in the past quarter have been well below target, as I'm sure you know. Also, our bricks-and-mortar retailers have been complaining that customers are using our listed prices on your website to negotiate a cheaper price at their shops.
John Right.
Stefanie So basically there are a few things I'd like you to do to deal with these problems.
John OK.
Stefanie First of all, I'd like you to highlight our new line of microwaves in your 'featured products' section.
John Let me just write that down ... highlight new line of microwaves in 'featured products', OK, got you.
Stefanie The second thing is, I'd like you to include at least two product shots of each item you list.
John Two product shots ... OK.
Stefanie And the final thing is: could you please hide the price of the products on your main web pages?
John What do you mean exactly?
Stefanie Well, I've seen the feature on other shopping websites. Basically, your customers can't see the price of a particular item until they place it in their shopping cart.
John Ah yes, I understand what you mean. Well, I'm not sure if that's possible with our system, but I'll check with the technical people and get back to you, if that's OK.
Stefanie Right.
John The first two things I can arrange straight away. The changes will be on the site by the end of this week.
Stefanie That sounds good.
John It's the least I can do. Listen, Stefanie, I'm really sorry that there have been these problems.
Stefanie Well, let's hope these changes improve things.
John Yes, I hope so.
Stefanie Well, thanks for your help, John.
John No problem. Just let me know if there's anything else I can do for you.
Stefanie I'll do that. OK, talk to you later.
John Bye now.

UNIT 5, Exercise 4

1 Most of our appliances have been sold at shops in the centre of town. But more and more appliances are being sold at a discount at large, no-frills stores outside the town centre.
2 To simplify the distribution process, we no longer work with small, independently-owned shops. We work mainly with stores that have multiple locations around the country. However, they always demand a deep discount, which can sometimes be a problem.
3 The candy bars we produce are sold at small shops which are open long hours, and often located in city centres or alongside petrol stations. They are also sold at large stores that combine the features of a grocery store and a department store, and often at a lot more!
4 The baked goods we manufacture are sold at stores which are independently-owned and operated, but which share the same name (which is licensed).
5 Our cameras used to be sold via catalogues sent out by post, but increasingly that outlet is dying out. Instead, our cameras are now mostly sold via the Internet.

UNIT 5, Exercise 6

a One of the things that distinguishes us from the competition is that we don't just start phoning. First we make test calls, and then we evaluate what we've done before creating a plan for the longer term.

b With telemarketing, you want to know whether your strategy is working or not. That's why we constantly check the performance of the approach. If any part of it isn't working as well as it could, we can change it.

c Some telemarketing companies speak to you for ten minutes and send you a script the next day. Not us. First we speak to your marketing team to find out as much as we can about your target market and your goals for the telemarketing campaign. Then we use this information to develop a strategy that both companies can use.

d One of the most annoying things with telemarketing agencies is lost information. Telemarketers often make no notes on the people they contact who say no. But there's a big difference between the people who say 'Never call me again' and those who say 'Well, that sounds very interesting, but we just don't have the money right now.' We keep track of those people and companies who are worth contacting again in the future.

UNIT 6, Exercise 1

So, the subject of my talk today is how to make your website into an effective marketing tool. Let me ask you: is your website something you just let the people in IT deal with? It shouldn't be. A home page is the face you show the world, so think of it as an essential marketing tool. If you don't have a clear, easy-to-navigate site, you might lose potential clients.

A good site map and search function can make it much easier for visitors to the site to find the information they need. A good rule is that they shouldn’t need to click more than three times to get to where they want to go. At the same time, a lengthy Flash introduction is probably a waste of money. Surveys show that the majority of visitors simply skip these to get to the main site. The same goes for pop-up (or pop-under) windows, which nearly all web users find very irritating. And remember to keep images small so that visitors don’t have to wait ten minutes for the site to download.

Your website should offer complete information on all the products and services you offer. As more and more people shop from home, visitors should be able to find out all they need to know without cost and features. A ‘look inside’ option, which was made popular by Amazon, is worth including: this can be anything from product photographs from several angles or a detailed breakdown of the services you offer, and finally, you need either a simple shopping interface or information on how visitors can purchase your goods.

Naturally, creating a website in a foreign language can pose an extra challenge. It’s important to have a native speaker check all content. However, if you’re dealing with many non-native speakers, it’s also essential that the content isn’t too difficult to understand. If most of your customers aren’t native speakers, a style which is too complicated will confuse, not impress.

UNIT 6, Exercise 7

Chris Hello, Eye Care Central, Chris speaking.

Claudia Hi Chris, this is Claudia from Vadi Vision. Chris, I’m hoping you can help me. I’m writing a press release for our new ultra-hard lenses. Our customer services rep forwarded me your email where you said that you thought our lenses were the best in the business. This would be a great quote to include, and I was wondering if you would mind us using it?

Chris Um, I’m not sure. Just between you and me, I do think Vadi Vision makes the best lenses. But we work with other suppliers too, of course, and I don’t want to upset them.

Claudia I can understand that. Is there anything else positive you might be willing to say about our lenses?

Chris Well, I think a lot of our customers know about your lenses through your advertising campaign. I love the picture with the lion wearing the eye glasses! So how about something like ‘Our customers often ask for Vadi Vision lenses by name’?

Claudia That sounds great! Let me just write it down ... often ask for Vadi Vision lenses by name. Thanks so much for your help, Chris.

Chris No problem, Claudia. See you at the trade fair next week?

Claudia Yes, I’ll see you there! Make sure you come by our stand. We’ll have some samples of our new lenses to give away.

UNIT 7, Exercise 3

Kirstin Well, it’s really a very high-profile event. Everyone in the pharmaceutical industry knows about it and attends. Apart from the exposure we’ll get with our stand, I think there are a lot of added benefits, including having our name sent to companies around the world and getting an extra audience with the people attending the other trade fair. The fair will also be marketed to key publications.

Paolo Hmm. I’m not so sure. They say that they’ll feature you in their marketing campaign, but that’s not really accurate. There will be hundreds of companies listed in their brochures, and we’ll just be one of many.

Kirstin That’s true. But I do think that participating will raise our profile and make us better known. Perhaps more importantly, it will give us the chance to meet new prospects who might be interested in our company.

Paolo That’s a good point. Why don’t I have a look at the budget this afternoon, and give you a decision tomorrow?

UNIT 7, Exercise 6

1

Visitor 1 Excuse me, are these memory sticks to take away?

Michael They are indeed. They’ve got our URL printed on them, so do have a look at our website too when you get a chance. Or do you have any questions for me now?

Visitor 2 Would it be possible to be put on your mailing list?

Kirstin Yes, certainly. If you just give me your card, I’ll be happy to add your name.

Visitor 3 I’d like to discuss this with my boss first. How can I reach you?

Kirstin Here’s my card. Feel free to call or email me.

Visitor 4 Do you have some information I can take away?

Michael Yes, let me give you one of our brochures. It lists the points we’ve just discussed.

Visitor 5 What does your company do?

Kirstin We use natural sources to create effective medications.

Visitor 6 Do you make natural cosmetics as well?

Michael No, we don’t. We focus on medications.

Visitor 7 I’m just browsing.

Kirstin Well, just let me know if you need anything.

UNIT 7, Exercise 8

Hello everyone. I’d like to thank you for joining us today. As you probably know, Natural Solutions has been making great progress. Our innovative plant-based antibiotics have recently been approved for distribution. And we have a new line of cold medication that is expected to do very well. I hope you’ll help yourselves to the leaflets and samples at the back. Please feel free to approach me if you’d like to set up a personal product presentation. Remember, the best solution is a natural solution, and I’m sure we have a solution for you!
